Caring for Society with the best of Nursing knowledge

Kelly Mumford, Ms. Hunter, Michelle Molligan and Craig Lafontaine adopted a patient at a nursing home.

"Let me take this pulse." says Diana Diaz.

Caring...

Caring is at the core of our profession. We come together from many places and stages in our lives to learn how to practice what is already in our souls. Charity School of Nursing is a magical place where people are transformed from student to teacher, from student to healer, and from dreamer to doer.

There are instances when communication breaks down, and the patient cannot express his or her needs. Sally Weiss received a citation for clinical excellence in a specific incident by facilitating the communication between a Spanish-speaking client and staff, during her OB rotation.

Her client was to have a dead fetus surgically removed, however, she was unable to express the plethora of questions, concerns and needs she had. Weiss volunteered to care for the patient throughout the day, returned to her bedside after clinicals to continue serving as translator, and made flash cards with which the patient could communicate with staff.

Good friends, Caroline Bowler and Sally Weiss are proud of their bars at the Spring Promotion Ceremony.

As fledgling nursing students, often we doubt our abilities. Vicky Hingle was given an honor citation for clinical excellence in a specific incident. During NAC I, Hingle's assessment of her client did not gel with the information that had been charted most recently. Although her patient was to be discharged, Hingle realized the patient was in respiratory distress. Although the staff insisted that the patient's reports had been good throughout the night, Hingle persisted. Thanks to Hingle, instructor and staff reassessed the patient and oxygen was re-instituted and the patient was retained.

"Hingle displayed exceptional poise in the face of many authority figures telling her that all was OK. She persisted in her advocacy role for the client's well being and obtained the appropriate treatment for this client."

Last fall, when a young woman and a young man were fatally shot at a jewelry store in Lakeside Mall, a Charity student attempted to save one of those lives.

Julian Springler, Level III, was at his job in Lakeside Mall when he heard gunshots coming from inside the mall. He informed security and quickly headed to the jewelry store across the mall from his store, where the shots had come from.

There he discovered two wounded people. He performed CPR on one of the victims until paramedics arrived.

Springler says of the event, "I was scared, but I knew that once I walked in, there was no walking out." He knew what to do and he acted.

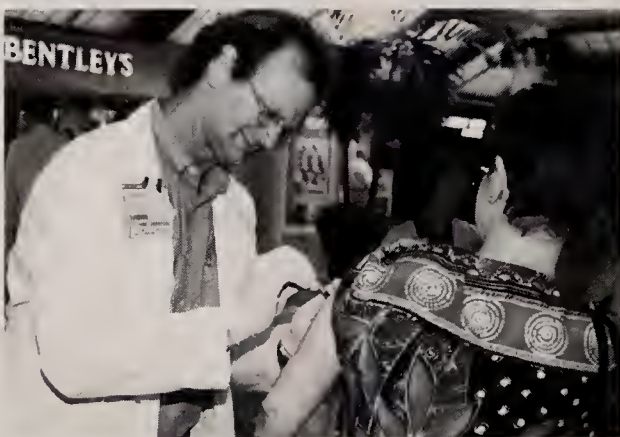

A life was not saved in this case. Thanks to Springler, however, the people in his store made a safe exit and the family of the young woman will forever know that a Charity student trained in life saving skills made sure she received a chance to live.

...for Society...

At Charity, there are many means to serve society besides in the clinical setting. Charity Association of Student Nurses, our pre-professional organization, offers many opportunities to advance personally and professionally. This year, CASN offered opportunities to serve the public through offering blood pressure screenings at a local store. They collected food, clothing and other donations for the people of Honduras, a battered women's shelter, and the needy at holiday time. CASN members collected film containers to be used as prescription bottles in developing countries. They also authored a resolution to reduce the incidence of handgun related injury and deaths through education. CASN brought joy to the children in the Peds unit at University Hospital at Mardi Gras and Christmas with their Peds Parades. CASN also shared a Thanksgiving meal and a wonderful day with the clients of the Greenwalt Center, a day care facility for people with Alzheimer's. CASN brought the community to the school when they brought the artwork of some of the Greenwalt Center's clients to the lobby, for all students to appreciate.

Spectrum members brought Halloween treats to the children on the Peds unit at University. They fed the homeless at St. Joseph's and they offered them "clean up kits" to help them take care of their hygiene needs. Spectrum also brought the image of nursing to an elementary school to inform children about nursing careers.

Ecoee Rooney, was granted the Helene Fuld Fellowship by the National Student Nurses Association. As part of the fellowship, she attended the International Cancer Congress in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil along with one nursing student from each state.

"The real journey does not consist in looking for new lands, but in seeing with new eyes."
Proust

"As I heard this quote, during Linda Sama's "Oncology Nursing and Tobacco Control" presentation at the International Cancer Congress, I realized that my journey as a nurse, in a way, began there. This fellowship both brought me to new lands and gave me new eyes with which to see. My experiences in Rio, as well as the friendships fostered, the information, stories, philosophies, and ideas shared, are the seeds that will evolve throughout my career."

...With the Best of Nursing Knowledge

Charity School of Nursing, known nationally as one of the top nursing schools in the country, bears many leaders and nurses of excellence. Several students were recognized for their excellence throughout the year. All of us, however, are heroes and heroines to the clients we serve. We provide them with care, compassion and comfort. We ensure their dignity is maintained and we gain their trust. We meaningfully plan their individualized care and we carry out the interventions with the best of our ability. We have all grown from these interactions with patients, learning more about people and therefore ourselves. Our education does not stop when we cross the stage to receive our diplomas, rather, then it begins.

1998 DECEMBER 1998 GRADUATES

"Faith, Hope and a Charity Grad!"

In November of 1998, I was able to attend the National Student Nurses Convention in Cincinnati. That is where I realized how well known and respected the name of Charity is nationwide. This is attributed directly to the faculty and staff at the School of Nursing.

I thank the school for setting such high standards, teaching, inspiring, and preparing us for the challenges that lie ahead.

As I look back at the December class of '98, I feel such a sense of admiration. We made it. We have laughed together, cried together and learned to lean on each other to make it through. As we leave, there are many beautiful memories that we will take with us for the rest of our lives. Although we will be parting company and moving on our own life's paths, we will take with us a sense of pride which can never be taken away. Congratulations to the Class of December of 1998!

Sincerely,

1999 MAY 1999 GRADUATES

"Charity Nurses are the Heartbeat of Healing"

Graduation has ended an exciting chapter in our lives. It seems as though yesterday was August 19, 1997 and in a blink of an eye, we are Charity School of Nursing Alumni. Where did the time go?

Monday's we were up bright and early for lecture and then off to the hospital to research our clients. Monday night was summed up in two words- Care Planning! Tuesdays and Wednesdays were spent in the hospital rendering holistic care - everything from changing bed pans to resuscitative measures and all aspects of nursing care in between. Thursdays belonged to the skills lab practicing for check-offs. Finally - the weekend. Time to spend with family and friends! Right!? Wrong! Our heads were buried in books, studying.

Through blood, sweat and tears, and some unforgettably joyful times that I hold dear to my heart, we made it. And as we begin a new chapter as professional nurses, let us never forget we are the proud graduates of CSN Class of May 1999.

Spring Graduation at UNO

"We did it!"

We were... "Singing in the Rain"

The month of September 1998 was a chaotic one for all of us at CSN. First, we were threatened with Hurricane Francis. Thanks to the grace of Mother Nature, it did not hit N.O. We were lucky.

Next, on September 15, the rain came. By the next morning, many students were unable to get to school. The students who had early clinical and were already here, were starting to get worried. The word was passed that classes were canceled, and it was soon discovered that the situation was far worse than it looked from the school windows. Especially when the water around the school began to rise and the little blue car parked in front of the school began to float away!

Those who were willing to take the chance of getting home, walked in thigh-high water to get to their cars. Some found their cars with the water so high, their personal belongings were floating at the level of the dashboard. Those who were lucky to get their cars started found themselves in huge traffic jams. Cars had stalled everywhere and medians were packed with cars trying to escape the rising water. It was a very troublesome day. Finally, Mother Nature stopped the rain. The New Orleans community had a lot of clean up ahead of it. We were lucky at the school and classes resumed as usual on Monday.

About one week later, Hurricane Georges decided to come our way. The city thought that this one would be big and would come right up the mouth of the river. Schools and business were closed everywhere and mandatory evacuations and curfews for the entire city of New Orleans were enforced. Many people left town and many flocked to shelters. But, as luck would have it, the hurricane changed course. We had a big scare. September was a memorable month and one we will never forget at CSN!

"Why didn't you tell us to bring our swimsuits?"

"I didn't think I had to swim home!" says Dolores Jambon.

Scott Duhon leads this group in a song- "Rain drops keep falling on my head!"

The little blue car was floating away!

"Hey Look! It's a wavepool!"

Nightingale Pledge

I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly to pass my life in purity and practice my profession faithfully.

I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous and not take or administer any harmful drug.

I will do all in my power to elevate the standard of my profession and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping, and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my profession.

With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care.
